A Word from
Our Director

Sahari Ani
Dean of the Singapore Red Cross Academy

At the Singapore Red Cross Academy (SRCA), we believe learning is more than acquiring skills, it strengthens people, communities, and our shared humanity. Our programmes are built on a simple conviction: human and social capital are the foundations of resilience.

As humanitarian challenges grow more complex, the need for individuals who can act with competence, compassion, and clarity has never been greater. Through our Centre in First Aid & Resuscitation and the Centre for Psychosocial Resilience and Humanitarian Studies, we equip learners to respond with confidence, care with dignity, and lead with humanity.

Grounded in real-world practice and humanitarian principles, our approach develops both capability and character. Whether you aim to save a life, support someone in distress, or strengthen community resilience, SRCA is committed to walking that journey with you.

Together, we can build a safer, kinder, and more prepared society, where every learner becomes a force for good.
